PORTFOLIO

ABOUT ME

Wanru Peng

Hi! I'm Wanru and I'm taking this class to learn how to use various programs to create digital media. I've always been interested in digital art so I thought it would be useful to take this class and brush up on my skills. I decided to use a booklet style portfolio so I can show off my projects and descriptions side by side. I chose my favorite color, lilac, as the primary color for this photobook. I chose to go with the Helvetica Neue typeface for a classic and simple look.

PIXEL

CORGI

For my pixel project, I chose to create a portrait of a corgi because I've been thinking about adopting a dog. I used a water color background and played with the opacity to make it look like there was watercolor over the image. I added the bone frame and cartoons on the side for a fun touch.

VECTOR CAT

For the vector project, I drew my friend's cat. She always lounging around like this! I first hand drew the image using an iPad and Apple pencil, then used it as a template for the vector drawing on Illustrator.

MOTION

FOOD

For the motion project, I animated my cat design from the vector project so that it was eating food. I found food images on Google, cut them out in Photoshop and created rotating motion animations of them flying into the cat's mouth. I also added a lot of sound files to emphasize the animations.

THANK YOU!
